

How to read an entry — Monier-Williams, A Sanskrit-English Dictionary (1899): kāla

Entry specimen after the model of Duden’s Deutsches Universalwörterbuch spread: kāla re-typeset from the Cologne digital text (39 records, 2 print paragraphs), microstructural elements labelled. Interactive on screen (hover/click a label or a highlight; light/dark toggle); one single sheet in print.

</

How to use this page

The column re-typesets every record whose key1 equals the requested headword from csl-orig v02/mw; callout labels are wired by leader lines to highlighted elements. This callout set is a first pass proposed by the build tool — verify against the print before treating it as authoritative anatomy. Sigla and citations are reproduced verbatim from the digital record.